Article in StarBizWeek on 4 October

We refer to the articles headlined "Changing Bankscape" and "ANZ reportedly looking to sell down Asian Assets" which appeared on page 3 of StarBizWeek on Saturday 4 October.

The articles claim that ANZ and Tan Sri Azman Hashim have engaged investment banks to sell their stakes in AmBank Group.

This report is incorrect, and is speculative in nature. Tan Sri Azman Hashim has confirmed that he has not engaged in any discussions on this matter. ANZ have also informed AmBank Group that they are not engaged in any discussions to sell their stake or appointed an investment bank to divest their shareholding.

We would like to take this opportunity to reassure all customers and stakeholders that we will continue to act in the best interests of all customers and stakeholders of the AmBank Group.
